

The study included 30 participants from two research centers.